To Whom It May Concern

NIPPON STEEL TRADING CORPORATION

Announcement of New Pages on Our Official Website

Nippon Steel Trading Corporation (hereinafter referred to as “our company”) has newly launched the “Human Asset Stories” and “Our Business Story” pages on our official website.

The “Human Asset Stories” page focuses on each employee with diverse backgrounds and values, introducing their aspirations toward work and the paths of their challenges. Through the stories of our people who are active across the company, we present the appeal of our human resources—the source of our value creation—and the individuals who support our continued growth.

The “Our Business Story” page highlights the businesses on which our company is focusing in order to realize our medium- to long-term management plan. It introduces our initiatives that have emerged at the forefront of our operations, including challenges in new businesses in response to changes in the market environment, cross-departmental projects, and the development of new services, while timely communicating our ongoing efforts and initiatives.

Going forward, we will continue to update the content of both pages and provide clear and accessible information to a wider audience about the people who work at our company and the various businesses we operate.

Our company will continue striving to provide useful and engaging information through our official website.
