NIPPON STEEL TRADING CORPORATION

The top page of our official website has been renewed

Nippon Steel Trading Corporation (hereinafter referred to as "our company") has renewed the top page of its official website. This renewal was carried out to make information within the site easier to find and provide smoothly.

The new top page features a major overhaul of the design and layout of the first view, pursuing consistent design and user-friendliness from the user's perspective, significantly improving usability.

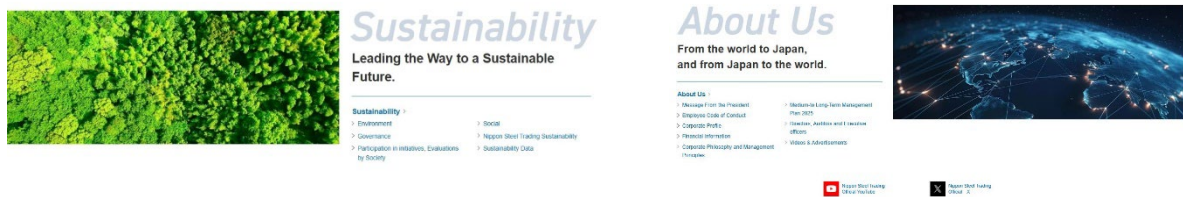

Additionally, by introducing news releases and topics related to our business on the top page, we designed it to deliver specific initiatives of our company. Furthermore, the design ensures that necessary information is appropriately displayed on various devices such as tablets and smartphones, providing a comfortable browsing environment for a wide range of users.

Moving forward, we will conduct effectiveness verification towards a full renewal and continue to build a user-first website. Through our new official website, we aim to enhance stakeholders' understanding of our business and initiatives and provide necessary content in an easy-to-understand manner.
